Anthony Carr's predictions and prophecies were written and completed by June 30, 2006.

* ELIZABETH TAYLOR, making her first public appearance since The Tonight Show with the late JOHNNY CARSON, will deny her latest alleged health problems—including rumors of Alzheimer's. "It's all a publicity stunt!"—she'll claim. This to maintain her status as Hollywood's queen, since she has little else. A desperate plea for attention to keep her place as "the brightest star in the firmament." Stay tuned for more bizarre antics!

PUBLISHER'S NOTE

These predictions and prophecies were written and completed by June 30, 2008:

* ELIZABETH TAYLOR, as her mind continues "to wander," leaves a large chunk of change to another LARRY FORTENSKY-type, much to the chagrin of family and friends. However, he proves to be a good butler / assistant / caregiver as was the late "large mouthed" MARTHA RAY'S "companion." But one day Liz will awake to "wonder where the butler went," when she goes to the bank and finds "her money spent!"

* LIZ TAYLOR'S bizarre antics, possibly the effects of Alzheimer's (or Part-Timer's) disease, starts Hollywood tongues wagging when she begins wandering around old haunts of bygone years, attempting to recapture her glory days by re-enacting, in public, for all to witness, some of her more famous (and infamous) roles. But none (- the antics! -) will be so bizarre as that which is coming round the bend - and coming fast!
